MAIL: Gotta letter and clipping Friday from Raymond E. Field, Carrier Mills township supervisor who also had a talk with Charles Cleveland when the Chicago Daily News reporter was visiting southern Illinois recently.

Cleveland went back to Chicago and wrote a series of articles publicizing southern Illinois which are the most complimentary I can remember from an upstate correspondent.

"I am like you," Raymond wrote. "I think this kind of advertising is priceless and if we could just get more of this same kind instead of this poverty-and-pity stuff we could do a lot more for southern Illinois."

"We have everything here to offer that it takes to make life enjoyable, to say nothing of winters that are milder than in other places where a lot of our good people have to live."

"I received one of these clippings (which was enclosed) from a former citizen of Stonefort telling me he had read every word of them and wound up by saying that if we got anything down here that he could make a living at, to keep him in mind, he wanted to come home. And that looks good with the biggest majority of our citizens who are away from here working."

In the clipping from the Daily News enclosed by Supervisor Field, Reporter Cleveland quotes Field as saying: "It took us years to get into this mess. It's going to take us time to work our way back."

The article, which has a Carrier Mills dateline, tells of the regional idea that is being started here instead of each community working by itself.

"Communities combined have sufficient labor force," Cleveland writes. "They can pool their resources if needed. Folks here are used to driving 50 to 100 miles to work. If any town in the area gets new industry, they figure all will benefit."

The article tells of the work done at Eldorado and continues:

"Eldorado already has its first factory. Kenneth G. Douglas, a native of Michigan, came down here to start a company that recycles valves for diesel engines."

"Local businessmen helped raise the capital to start it."

Douglas told Cleveland he picked Eldorado because of the people, that if the business succeeds it will have a million dollar year gross and the need for 100 employees in a few years.

"I don't see how this area can miss," Douglas remarked to Cleveland.

Bernard Mattox, 26, Dies of Auto Accident Injuries

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at Richland church six miles west of Fairfield for Bernard Mattox, 26, an employee of the A and P grocery store in Harrisburg for about seven months.

The young man was injured Monday night near Norris City when the car he was driving left the highway and hit a utility pole. He died Thursday night in the Carmi hospital.

The body is at the Nale funeral home in Fairfield.

Mattox' home was at Fairfield but he had a room at the home of Mrs. Orval Ferrell in Harrisburg.

Forecast Smaller Crops in State; Corn Expected Lowest Since 1950

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The State Federal Crop Reporting Service said today Illinois' 1957 corn, soybean, wheat and oat crops will be far smaller than last year's, with the corn crop expected to be the smallest since 1950.

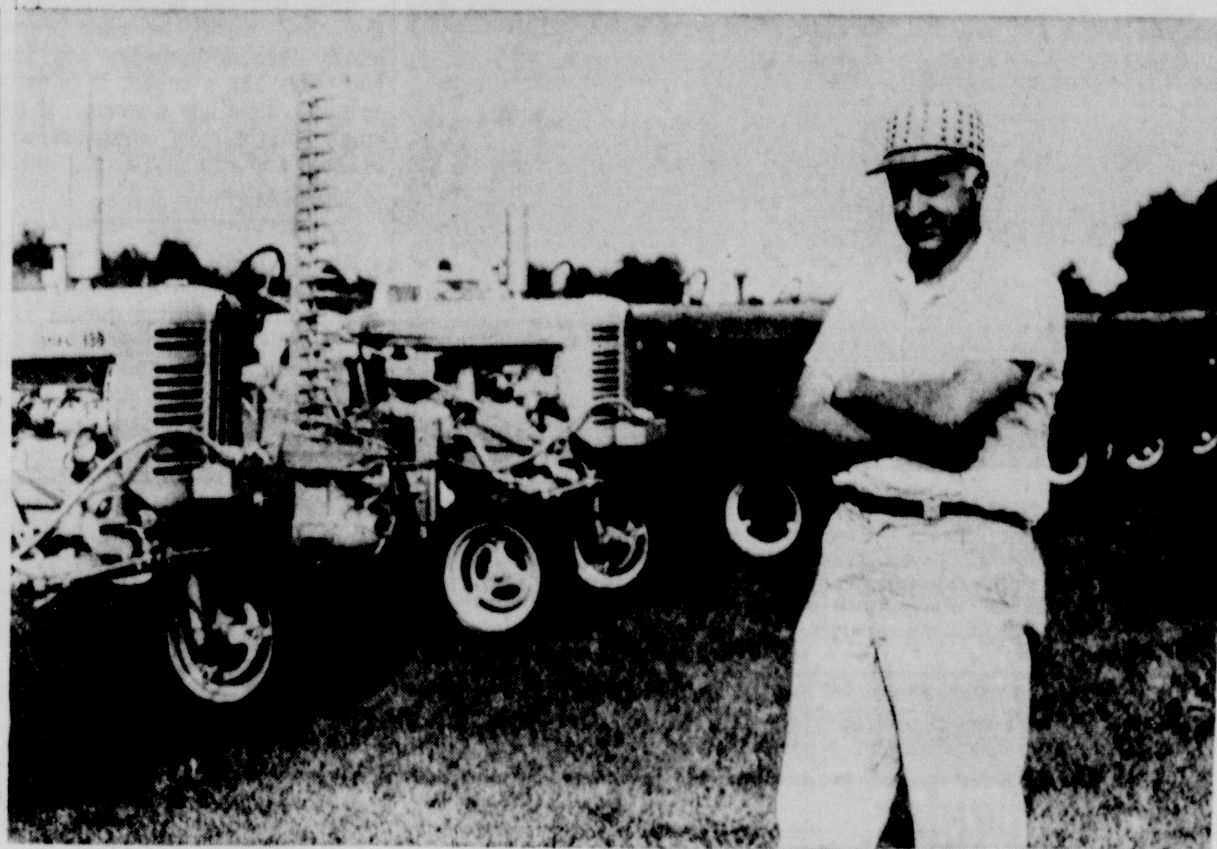

Late planting and excessive rains were blamed for the small crops.

The corn crop estimate as of Aug. 1 was placed at 430 million bushels, 28 per cent smaller than last year's record crop and 11 per cent smaller than the average crop between 1946-55.

The indicated corn yield was 52

Newest Chain Letter Fad

Bond Sales Brisk in Harrisburg; $25 Forms Depleted at Eldorado

The old chain letter, which cost a fellow a dime during deep depression days and a dollar a few years later, has now got up in the money with U. S. Series E bonds ($25 denomination) the price of taking part.

In fact, all the bond forms were depleted in a hurry at the two Eldorado banks this week and the fad was getting over to Harrisburg, with the two banks here writing out the $25 bonds and selling them at a real brisk clip.

There have been different opinions expressed on the legality of such a venture, but it definitely is against the law to send the chain letters through the mails. It always has been. And it has always been the instigators, or early birds, who stand to profit.

An Eldorado man said the fad started with a bang over there, that apparently there were a lot of the chain letters making the rounds.

The letters are headed "This is a Bond Selling Campaign" and on them are instructions to "give the person giving you this list a receipt for a $25 U. S. bond; and in his presence you also mail the bond purchased as a gift to the first person on a list of eleven names below."

Then the person getting in on the venture is told to make only two copies of the sheet, eliminating the top name and adding your name to the bottom of the list. Thus the name that is now No. 2 becomes No. 1 and your name becomes No. 11.

Further instructions tell the person to "give your copies to two of your friends showing them the receipt for the bond you bought and accompany them to a bank where they may purchase their bond."

The letter goes on to tell that if everybody does what he's supposed to do, when a person gets to the top of the list he can get $38,400 in bonds, which would be worth $51,000 in ten years.

Probe Still Underway

No Bribery Evidence

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—An investigation of alleged bribery in the Legislature has turned up "no direct evidence which could be presented . . . to a grand jury," State's Atty. J. Waldo Ackerman said today.

Ackerman opened his investigation after bribery charges were aired in connection with a bill to legalize parimutuel betting on jai alai games, a bill banning Sunday sale of automobiles and a measure to ban ambulance chasers.

Gov. Stratton vetoed both the jai alai and the Sunday sales bills after they were passed in the recent General Assembly. Chicago newspapers carried a number of stories reporting alleged bribery attempts.

In a report Friday Ackerman

said the investigation has not been concluded but that "there appears to be no direct evidence which could be presented at this time to a grand jury and upon which any action could be taken by a grand jury."

He said 17 legislators, 4 newspaper reporters, 5 lobbyists and 6 employees of the Legislature were questioned about the bribery charges.

Ackerman said he had conferred with one legislator who stated he had been approached by a lobbyist concerning a bill to ban ambulance chasers and that the lobbyist had asked "how much it was worth" to kill the bill.

Rep. John N. Erlenborn (R-Elmhurst) has said publicly that he was thus approached by a lobbyist for a railroad union.

But Ackerman said further investigation indicated the lobbyist was "heavily under the influence of intoxicants . . . and the statement was not taken seriously."

Ackerman also said he had discussed various news stories with the reporters who wrote them and that they declined to reveal their sources. Ackerman said the reporters indicated that their sources would deny the stories if they were identified.

Six Killed in Highway Crash

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP)—Six persons were killed late Friday when a car suspected of having been involved in a minor hit-run crash sped out of control down a grade on US50 near here and smashed head-on into an oncoming sedan.

The California Highway Patrol said the car which had leaped the dividing strip at 80 miles an hour matched the description of a car which sideswiped a truck and sped away minutes before the fatal crash.

Dead in the wreckage of one car were four members of one family, Lt. Col. Clarence E. Fisher, 39, Castle AFB pilot, his wife, Faye, 33, and two children aged 10 and 1 1/2. A third child was hospitalized with critical injuries.

Occupants of the other car were identified as Paul F. Lockett, 40, Hayward, Calif., and his wife, Pauline, 38. Lockett was a guard at the Alameda Naval Shipyard.

Death Takes Mrs. 'Eppie' Stringer; Funeral Monday

She was married to Thomas M. Stringer in 1913, at Dorrisville, and he preceded her in death in 1924. There were five children born of that marriage, all of whom survive.

Meany Delegate to UN

Colorado Rancher, Ex-Navy Official To Head Foreign Aid Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has picked James H. Smith Jr., a Colorado rancher and former Navy official, to direct America's multi-billion dollar foreign aid program.

The President also nominated AFL-CIO President George Meany as a delegate to the 12th session of the United Nations General Assembly and movie actress Irene Dunne as alternate delegate.

Eisenhower sent the three nominations to the Senate Friday along with that of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. for re-appointment as head of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations. James J. Wadsworth was selected alternate to Lodge.

The 48-year-old Smith, a native

New Yorker, would replace John B. Hollister as head of the International Cooperation Administration. Hollister notified Eisenhower July 1 that he wanted to step down after nearly 2 1/2 years in the post.

Smith was a commander in the Naval Reserve during World War II. He later served in a variety of Navy Department posts, as executive assistant secretary for air and as a special assistant to the secretary of the Navy.

Administration officials said Secretary of State John Foster Dulles picked Miss Dunne, wife of Dr. Francis D. Griffin, because she is regarded an outstanding American woman with a great interest in international affairs.

Senate Rackets Investigators To Question Ousted Union Official

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate rackets investigator said today an ousted union official will be asked next week whether he handed New York hoodlum Johnny Dio his passport into the labor movement.

Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the Senate Rackets Committee's main witness Monday will be Anthony J. Doria, who resigned under fire last year as secretary-treasurer of the Allied Industrial Workers, a catch-all union formerly known as the AFL United Auto Workers.

Kennedy said the committee also wants to know why Doria got an $80,000 going-away present when he left the union in February, 1956. Outgoing union President Earl Heaton testified Friday that Doria got $25,000 cash and promissory notes for the rest. He said Doria is suing to collect the notes.

Special Convention Called
A special convention of the union in St. Louis, called to comply with AFL-CIO orders for a house-cleaning, decided Thursday to try to recover the $25,000 cash from Doria.

The committee will also question Doria about his handling of Dio after the dapper little racketeer became boss of the UAW-AFL's New York operations. The committee has charged that Dio muscled into control of UAW-AFL Local 102, the union's first New York unit, in 1951-52.

Former union President Lester Washburn has fingered Doria as the man who issued a new charter for the local making Dio an official.

From that start Dio rose rapidly to become New York regional director of the union and got charters for a string of locals. The committee says the locals were staffed with Dio henchmen and operated a thriving racket of extortion and "sweetheart" contracts which exploited low-paid Negro and Puerto Rican workers.

The committee says Dio's henchmen also staffed seven phony "paper locals" of the Teamsters Union which were set up by Teamster Vice President James R. Hoffa to swing an election for control of the Teamsters in New York.

Gribble New Farmers Home Committeeman

Orval Gribble, Route 3, Harrisburg, is the new Farmers Home Administration committeeman for Saline county. He succeeds Reuel Thaxton who has served his full three year term. E. Ronald Coon, the agency's county supervisor, announced today.

The other two committeemen with unexpired terms are W. H. Robinson and W. B. Pulliam. Committee members serve 3-year terms arranged so that one member is appointed each year. The term of office begins July 1. A member completing his term cannot succeed himself and at least two of the members must be farmers.

The county committee determines the eligibility of local farmers who apply for Farmers Home Administration loans. The committee also certifies the value of farms being purchased or improved with Farmers Home Administration loans and assists in adapting the loan program to local conditions.

The agency does not make a loan of any type to an applicant whose credit needs can be handled by other credit sources.

Whips Up Squalls Near Beaumont; Tides Recede

Heavy Rains Hit Chicago and Fort Wayne, Ind., Areas

By United Press

Tropical storm Bertha turned out to be a weak sister to Hurricane Audrey, running out of breath shortly before she flopped on the Louisiana coast late Friday.

The U. S. Weather Bureau reported that Bertha, at one point churning along at near-hurricane force, was gradually diminishing in strength as she wheezed inland. Highest winds at 4 a. m. c. d. t. were 30 to 40 m. p. h. in squalls near the center of the storm about 20 miles northwest of Beaumont, Tex.

Residents along the Gulf Coast, however, had taken no chances and thousands fled the marshy strip which Hurricane Audrey flailed June 27, taking more than 500 lives. Rain had already stopped falling over Cameron, La., late Friday night and winds, seas and tides began to recede as Bertha moved inland.

Although flagging in strength, Bertha's broad sweep continued to whip up squalls and locally heavy rains, about 1 1/2 inches falling at Beaumont.

Ironically, one of the few reports of damage on land was from Cameron, La., nearly destroyed by hurricane Audrey.

One of the 10 persons who refused to flee from Bertha tried to cook his supper on a makeshift stove.

Rains Drench Chicago

It blew up and destroyed his home and the house next to it.

Further north, heavy rains drenched Chicago for the third time within a month. More than two inches of rain fell in the northwest part of the city, according to an unofficial report, and there were reports of flooded viaducts and basements.

An even heavier downpour hit Fort Wayne, Ind., starting in early evening and depositing 3.69 inches by midnight. Elsewhere thunderstorms pounded a belt extending across the lower Great Lakes into eastern Iowa; Pittsburgh was soaked with a half-inch downpour; and the Texas Panhandle, New Mexico and western Washington were peppered with isolated thundershowers.

Outside the rainfall area fair skies prevailed throughout the country with the exception of New England where clouds continued to keep the sun in. Humidity was high in the southern and central Plains and in most of the area west of the Mississippi and south of the Mason-Dixon Line.

NEW HOUSE IN HARRISBURG—The above photo shows a one-story frame structure that was moved intact from Galatia a short time ago. However it's not a real residence but a play house that was built for Mrs. Harker Miley when she was little Dolly Jones 35 years ago. It was moved from her mother's home in Galatia to the Harker Miley residence at 408 East Church street. The house was built for Mrs. Miley as a Christmas present by her grandfather, the late P. P. Jones. Mrs. Miley's grandmother furnished the house and made its curtains, and it had been at the home of Mrs. Miley's mother, Mrs. Edna Jones, all these years. In fact, Mrs. Miley's daughter, Joan Upchurch, played in it as a child and Mr. Miley plans for it to be used by his niece, Katie Lou Miley, and friends in the future. The house is practically ten by ten feet but on the inside the ceiling brings the height down to a little less than six feet. Inside is a breakfast nook, miniature electric stove, and children's table, chair, davenport, dishes and silverware. It is wired for electricity. (Register Staff Photo)

Herbert Hoover, 84; Says Longevity Depends on Pills

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Herbert Hoover began his 84th year today, enjoying "fundamentally good" health but wryly acknowledging his "longevity depends mainly on pills."
The former Republican President told newsmen his hearing was failing but except for a siege of "wonder drug" allergy he has been in top shape since his last birthday.
"After you pass the Scriptural limit of three score and 10 years," he said with a smile, "your longevity depends mainly on pills."
Hoover and three generations of his family were guests at a luncheon aboard the American President liner named in his honor as a highpoint of the observance of his 83rd birthday.
Hoover had comments on practically every subject except politics to offer newsmen at his traditional pre-birthday news conference Friday.

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Livestock judging, square dancing, a barn dance program with cowboy Gene Autry and a baton twirling con-fore the judges.

Judging also opened in competi-

the ice show and society horse show, harness racing and a street his condition was not serious.

Dr. Arthur L. Bloomfield said the 72-year-old Mayer checked into

'Hannah, a Woman Who Kept Her Promise'

I Samuel 1:9-28
GOLDEN TEXT: "I will pay thee my vows, which my lips have uttered, and my mouth hath spoken, when I was in trouble." (Psalm 66:14)

INTRODUCTION — God needed a great man to lead Israel (His people) at this particular time. He chose a great woman to become mother of this man. His name was to be Samuel. He was to be a prophet and a maker of kings. Before he could even come into the world, it was necessary for God to choose his mother. God chose Hannah.

I. HANNAH KNEW GOD
1. When sons and daughters rise up and "call her blessed" a mother has the highest tribute that can be offered in this world. A mother may not be able to give material gifts to her children, but there is one thing that she alone can give them. That is—a Christian mother.

Lady, you are the only one in all this whole world who can give your child a Christian mother. They deserve such influence. What are you doing about it?

Hannah's husband loved her. He had followed the customs of that day and had taken a second wife. This second wife bore children. Hannah seemed to be able to have no child. Nevertheless, her husband loved her more than he did the other wife.

2. Hannah prayed. Oh! how she prayed for God to give her a child. She promised that she would dedicate that child to God "all the days of his life," if only God would permit her to conceive and bare a child.

3. God gave Hannah a son. She knew that this son was a gift from God. (Do you know that your child is God's gift?) She continued year after year to pray for her son.

II. HANNAH SACRIFICED

1. She had made a promise. She kept that promise. Have you made promises to God? Have you kept those promises? When your child was born, were you so happy that you promised God to rear that child under Christian influence and the influence of the church? Have you kept that promise?

2. Hannah kept her promise. Many times parents stand in the way of children going into the ministry or mission field. Sometimes these same parents were the ones who promised God years ago that He could have their child to do with as he pleased. How very tragic! Many men and women would be on mission fields today, were it not for such parents.

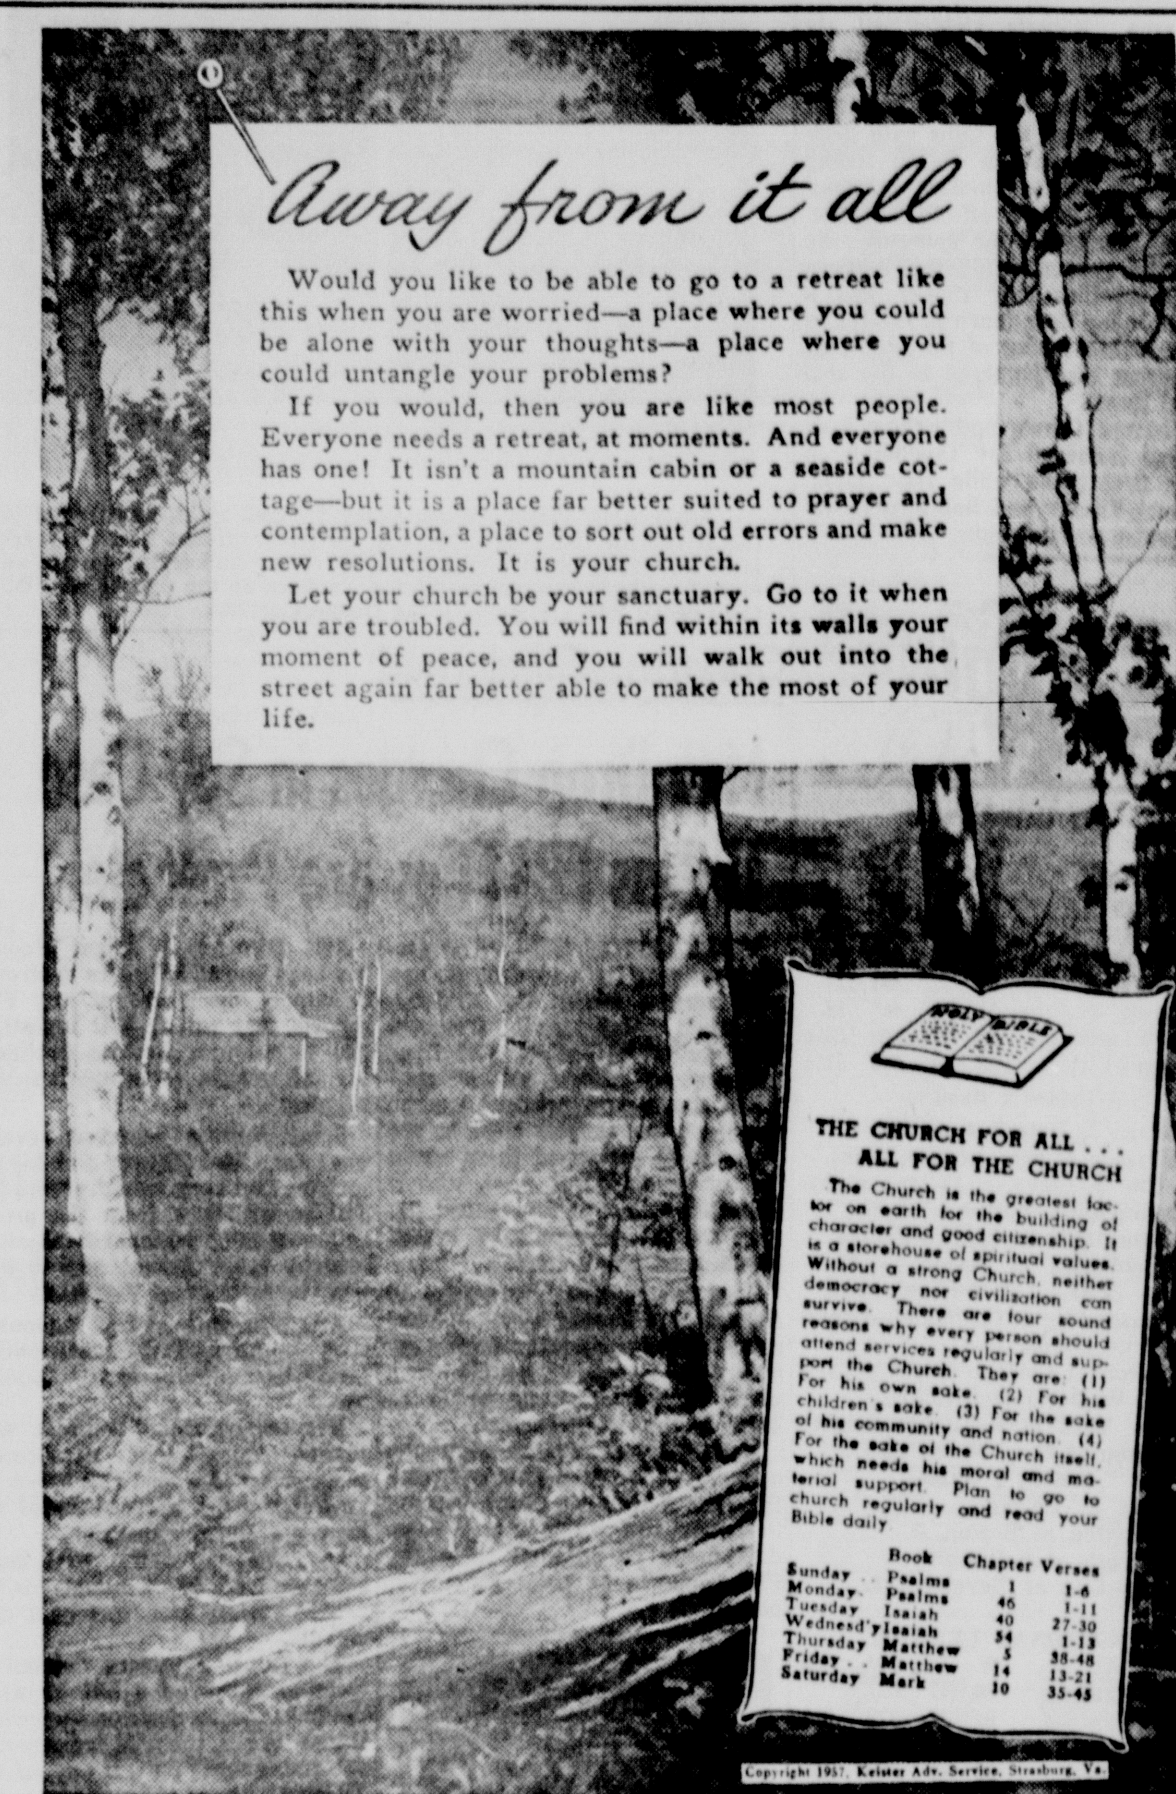

CONCLUSION — Hannah raised her boy in the paths of righteousness. She taught him to recognize God in all things in his life. Please note that she went with him to the temple. She did not send him. Parents who send their children to church and Sunday School, instead of taking them to make a terrible mistake. If church is no more important to parents than that, how can they expect it to ever be of much importance to the children?

The story of Hannah moves up to want to rededicate our lives into service for God. How about your life and its influence. Why not start today by giving yourself to Him?

Away from it all

Would you like to be able to go to a retreat like this when you are worried—a place where you could be alone with your thoughts—a place where you could untangle your problems?

If you would, then you are like most people. Everyone needs a retreat, at moments. And everyone has one! It isn't a mountain cabin or a seaside cottage—but it is a place far better suited to prayer and contemplation, a place to sort out old errors and make new resolutions. It is your church.

Let your church be your sanctuary. Go to it when you are troubled. You will find within its walls your moment of peace, and you will walk out into the street again far better able to make the most of your life.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Yankee Lead Dwindles to Four Games; Braves Drop Cards, 13-2; Lead 3½ Games

By United Press

Don't look now, Casey, but your lead is shrinking and the White Sox figure there's still time to take the Yankees to the cleaners. Casey Stengel has been warning the Yanks all along they can't afford to relax and if they think he was all talk, he can show 'em the American League standings today which point up the fact that their lead has been sliced from seven games to four.

Only a few days ago, everyone was talking about another prospective Yankee runaway but now they're buzzing about how the never-say-die White Sox still have a chance and how those amazing Baltimore Orioles have bounced back to take over fourth place under Paul Richards' canny direction.

The Orioles, as a matter of fact, used the Yankees as a stepping stone to fourth place when they came from behind to beat them, 4-3, Friday night.

The White Sox, still determined to make a race of it, defeated the Tigers, 5-4, in 11 innings, and Washington, which has caught the winning spirit, too, blanked Boston, 8-0. Kansas City beat Cleveland, 3-2, in 13 innings.

Over in the National League, Milwaukee increased its lead to 3½ games with a 13-2 shellacking of St. Louis. Brooklyn licked Pittsburgh, 4-2; the Giants beat the Phillies, 4-2; and the Redlegs ended the Cubs' six-game winning streak by sweeping a two-night double-header, 9-7 and 6-4.

The Braves pounded out 18 hits, including homers by Hank Aaron, Bob Hazle, Eddie Mathews and Wes Covington, in sending Lindy McDaniel of the Cardinals down to his seventh defeat. Bob Buhl posted his sixth straight victory and his 15th of the campaign as the Cards suffered their fourth consecutive loss.

Limping Duke Snider, back in the lineup for the first time in a week, was the key man as the Dodgers snapped their three-game losing streak. He deceived Pirate catcher Hank Foiles into dropping the ball and scored a run that put the Dodgers ahead in the fourth, then opened a two-run eighth with his 27th homer off loser Bob Friend. Rookie Danny McDevitt was the winner although Sandy Koufax and Clem Labine helped him out in the ninth.

Ray Crone hurled five-hit ball and Hank Sauer smashed his 17th homer as the Giants handed Rob-season. Roberts yielded all six Giant runs and eight of their 10 hits before leaving in the fifth. The Redlegs won their two-night twin bill from the Cubs with four-run rallies in the eighth inning of each game. Smokey Burgess' three-run homer off Dick Littlefield highlighted the four-run rally in the opener, while the Redlegs put together four singles and a double for their four-run cluster in the eighth inning of the nightcap. Burgess also homered in the second game.

George Crowe and Frank Robinson homered for Cincinnati in the first game while Dale Long, Chuck Tanner and Bob Speake did likewise for the Cubs.

NOW AND THEN—When Casey Stengel, right, was traded to the Giants in 1921, little did the outfielder dream that 36 years later he would be writing out batting orders and trying to win an eighth pennant as manager of the Yankees at the age of 67. Ol' Case broke into majors with the Dodgers at 22.

Congress Concerned

May Drop Charges in Spy Case Unless FBI Files are Protected

WASHINGTON (UP) — The government may have to drop its spy case against Soviet Col. Rudolph Ivanovich Abel until Congress takes action to protect FBI files, congressional sources said today.

The Justice Department had no comment, but sources close to the department expressed fears about the outcome against Abel, who is regarded as one of the central figures in the government's recent roundup of accused spies.

Abel was indicted Wednesday on charges that he sent secret defense material to Russia while posing for nine years as a Brooklyn photographer. If convicted, he would be liable to the death penalty.

Congressional concern about the outcome of the case stemmed from the June 3 Supreme Court decision to compel the government to show defendants in criminal cases the FBI reports of prosecution witnesses.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has been known for years to strongly oppose disclosure of any FBI reports that reveal FBI investigative techniques, disclose confidential informants, or injure innocent people.

Some sources reported several weeks ago that Hoover and his associates feel they would prefer the FBI to withdraw from the prosecution of some espionage and other security cases if necessary to protect the sanctity of FBI files.

Any prosecution of an espionage case without FBI participation would be unlikely—if not impossible.

But congressional sources said Justice Department prosecutors are concerned about the broad interpretation by trial judges of the Supreme Court's decision.

In some cases, the trial court has sustained defense demands for a wide variety of government documents.

The House Judiciary Committee recently approved a bill to offset the high court's decision somewhat. Under its bill, the trial judge would determine what part, if any, of the FBI report need to be shown to the defense.

The bill is still pending. Congressional sources expressed fear the measure may get lost in the shuffle during Congress' headlong rush toward adjournment.

Akins Wins TKO Over Sugar Hart

CLEVELAND (UP) — Virgil Akins, veteran St. Louis welterweight, clamored today for a shot at the winner of the Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio title bout, figuring he earned it by his upset eight-round technical knockout over Garnett (Sugar) Hart Friday night.

Referee Lou Parker stopped the fight after 49 seconds of the eighth round, but many ringers in the public auditorium felt he should have made the pasture mid-way in the seventh when a looping right hook dropped Hart for an eight-count, after which he arose and absorbed a merciless pasting.

Old Man's Know-How

Conerly, Agajanian, MacAfee Lead Giants to 22-12 Win Over All-Stars

CHICAGO (UP) — An "old man's know-how" pulled the New York Giants to a 22-12 win over the 1957 College All-Stars in the 24th battle between the best of the pros and the standout collegians.

Chuck Conerly, a 33-year-old Mississippian with nine years of experience with the National Football League champions, wasted no motions in spurring his team from behind to win.

His chief assistants were Ben Agajanian, 38, a place-kicking specialist, and Ken MacAfee, 28, an end. MacAfee, who has averaged one touchdown for every four passes caught in pro competition, hauled in only three of Conerly's efforts Friday night, but two of them went for touchdowns on gains of 38 and 10 yards.

When Conerly's passing attack slipped, Agajanian produced. In addition to making the conversions after each touchdown, he booted field goals of 33 and 45 yards, the latter only one yard short of the All-Star Game record. In all, Conerly hit on eight of 17 passes for 124 yards, most of the Giants' passing gains of 160 yards.

This attacking group, though, had to share honors with the defense. In the second half the All-Stars gained only seven yards rushing and 62 passing and but for Paige Cothren's 24-yard field goal, they would have been held scoreless.

Cothren, from Mississippi also, kicked a 12-yard field goal early.

Jockey Johnny Longden Hurt

DEL MAR, Calif. (UP) — Johnny Longden, the world's oldest, richest and winningest jockey, neared the end of the trail today after suffering a double break in his right leg at Del Mar race track. The 47-year-old rider, who has collected 5,090 victories in more than a quarter of a century of horse racing, lay in Scripps Memorial Hospital at nearby La Jolla with no misgivings about Friday's accident that may sideline him permanently from the game he loves.

MAIL: Gotta letter and clipping Friday from Raymond E. Field, Carrier Mills township supervisor who also had a talk with Charles Cleveland when the Chicago Daily News reporter was visiting southern Illinois recently.

Cleveland went back to Chicago and wrote a series of articles publicizing southern Illinois which are the most complimentary I can remember from an upstate correspondent.

"I am like you," Raymond wrote. "I think this kind of advertising is priceless and if we could just get more of this same kind instead of this poverty-and-pity-stuff we could do a lot more for southern Illinois."

"We have everything here to offer that it takes to make life enjoyable, to say nothing of winters that are milder than in other places where a lot of our good people have to live."

"I received one of these clippings (which was enclosed) from a former citizen of Stonefort telling me he had read every word of them and wound up by saying that if we got anything down here that he could make a living at, to keep him in mind, he wanted to come home. And that holds good with the biggest majority of our citizens who are away from here working."

In the clipping from the Daily News enclosed by Supervisor Field, Reporter Cleveland quotes Field as saying: "It took us years to get into this mess. It's going to take us time to work our way back."

The article, which has a Carrier Mills dateline, tells of the regional idea that is being started here instead of each community working by itself.

"Communities combined have sufficient labor force," Cleveland writes. "They can pool their resources if needed. Folks here are used to driving 50 to 100 miles to work. If any town in the area gets new industry, they figure all will benefit."

The article tells of the work done at Eldorado and continues:

"Eldorado already has its first factory. Kenneth G. Douglas, a native of Michigan, came down here to start a company that recycles valves for diesel engines."

"Local businessmen helped raise the capital to start it."

Douglas told Cleveland he picked Eldorado because of the people, that if the business succeeds it will have a million dollar year gross and the need for 100 employees in a few years.

"I don't see how this area can miss," Douglas remarked to Cleveland.

Bernard Mattox,
26, Dies of Auto
Accident Injuries

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at Richland church six miles west of Fairfield for Bernard Mattox, 26, an employee of the A and P grocery store in Harrisburg for about seven months.

The young man was injured Monday night near Norris City when the car he was driving left the highway and hit a utility pole. He died Thursday night in the Carmi hospital.

The body is at the Nale funeral home in Fairfield.

Mattox' home was at Fairfield but he had a room at the home of Mrs. Orval Ferrell in Harrisburg.

Forecast Smaller Crops in State;
Corn Expected Lowest Since 1950

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The State Federal Crop Reporting Service said today Illinois' 1957 corn, soybean, wheat and oat crops will be far smaller than last year's, with the corn crop expected to be the smallest since 1950.

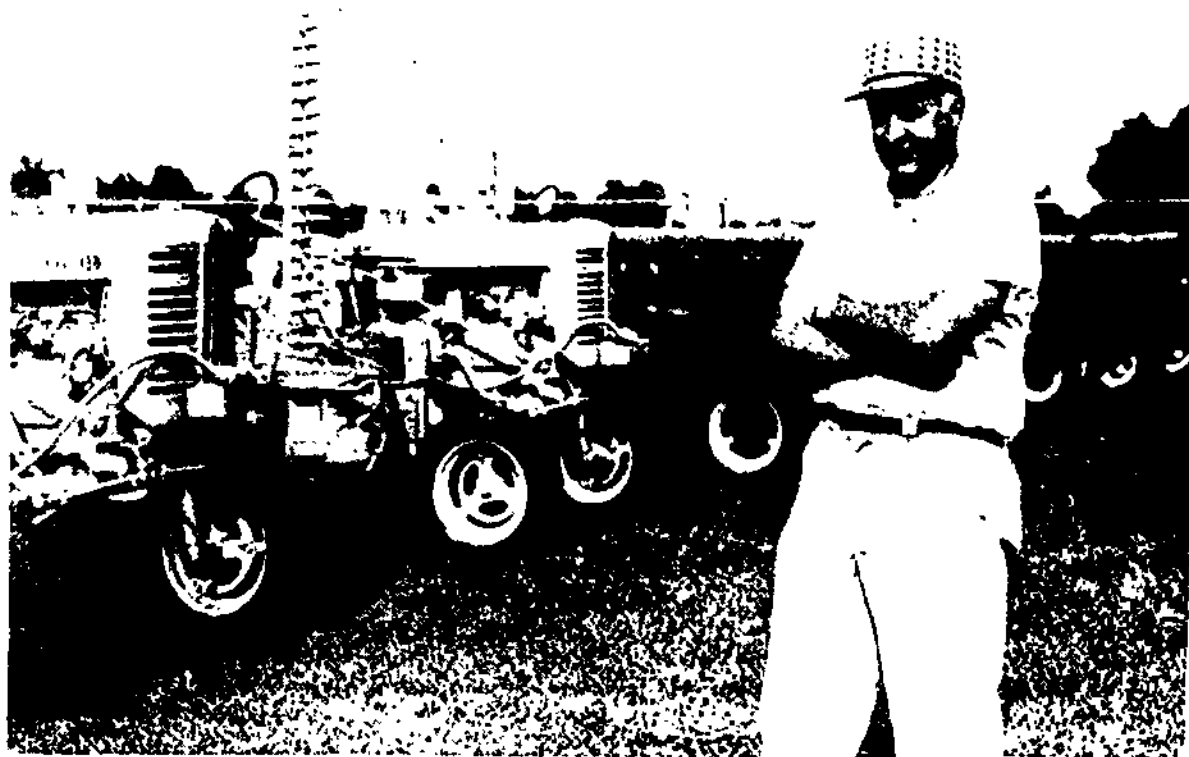

Late planting and excessive rains were blamed for the small crops.

The corn crop estimate as of Aug. 1 was placed at 430 million bushels, 28 per cent smaller than last year's record crop and 11 per cent smaller than the average crop between 1946-55.

The indicated corn yield was 52

Newest Chain Letter Fad

Bond Sales Brisk in Harrisburg;
$25 Forms Depleted at Eldorado

The old chain letter, which cost a fellow a dime during deep depression days and a dollar a few years later, has now got up in the money with U. S. Series E bonds ($25 denomination) the price of taking part.

In fact, all the bond forms were depleted in a hurry at the two Eldorado banks this week and the fad was getting over to Harrisburg, with the two banks here writing out the $25 bonds and selling them at a real brisk clip.

There have been different opinions expressed on the legality of such a venture, but it definitely is against the law to send the chain letters through the mails. It always has been. And it has always been the instigators, or early birds, who stand to profit.

An Eldorado man said the fad started with a bang over there, that apparently there were a lot of the chain letters making the rounds.

The letters are headed "This is a Bond Selling Campaign" and on them are instructions to "give the person giving you this list a receipt for a $25 U. S. bond; and in his presence you also mail the bond purchased as a gift to the first person on a list of eleven names below."

Then the person getting in on the venture is told to make only two copies of the sheet, "eliminating the top name and adding your name to the bottom of the list. Thus the name that is now No. 2 becomes No. 1 and your name becomes No. 11."

Further instructions tell the person to "give your copies to two of your friends showing them the receipt for the bond you bought and accompany them to a bank where they may purchase their bond."

The letter goes on to tell that if everybody does what he's supposed to do, when a person gets to the top of the list he can get $38,400 in bonds, which would be worth $51,000 in ten years.

Probe Still Underway

No Bribery
Evidence

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—An investigation of alleged bribery in the Legislature has turned up "no direct evidence which could be presented . . . to a grand jury," State's Atty. J. Waldo Ackerman said today.

Ackerman opened his investigation after bribery charges were aired in connection with a bill to legalize parimutuel betting on jai alai games, a bill banning Sunday sale of automobiles and a measure to ban ambulance chasing.

Gov. Stratton vetoed both the jai alai and the Sunday sales bills after they were passed in the recent General Assembly. Chicago newspapers carried a number of stories reporting alleged bribery attempts.

In a report Friday Ackerman

said the investigation has not been concluded but that "there appears to be no direct evidence which could be presented at this time to a grand jury and upon which any action could be taken by a grand jury."

He said 17 legislators, 4 newspaper reporters, 5 lobbyists and 6 employees of the Legislature were questioned about the bribery charges.

Ackerman said he had conferred with one legislator who stated he had been approached by a lobbyist concerning a bill to ban ambulance chasing and that the lobbyist had asked "how much it was worth" to kill the bill.

Rep. John N. Erlenborn (R-Elmhurst) has said publicly that he was thus approached by a lobbyist for a railroad union.

But Ackerman said further investigation indicated the lobbyist was "heavily under the influence of intoxicants . . . and the statement was not taken seriously."

Ackerman also said he had discussed various news stories with the reporters who wrote them and that they declined to reveal their sources. Ackerman said the reporters indicated that their sources would deny the stories if they were identified.

Six Killed in Highway Crash

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP)—Six persons were killed late Friday when a car suspected of having been involved in a minor hit-run crash sped out of control down a grade on US50 near here and smashed head-on into an oncoming sedan.

The California Highway Patrol said the car which had leaped the dividing strip at 80 miles an hour matched the description of a car which sideswiped a truck and sped away minutes before the fatal crash.

Dead in the wreckage of one car were four members of one family, Lt. Col. Clarence E. Fisher, 39, Castle AFB pilot, his wife, Faye, 33, and two children aged 10 and 1 1/2. A third child was hospitalized with critical injuries. Occupants of the other car were identified as Paul F. Lockett, 40, Hayward, Calif., and his wife, Pauline, 38. Lockett was a guard at the Alameda Naval Shipyard.

Meany Delegate to UN

Colorado Rancher, Ex-Navy Official
To Head Foreign Aid Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has picked James H. Smith Jr., a Colorado rancher and former Navy official, to direct America's multi-billion dollar foreign aid program.

The President also nominated AFL-CIO President George Meany as a delegate to the 12th session of the United Nations General Assembly and movie actress Irene Dunne as alternate delegate.

Eisenhower sent the three nominations to the Senate Friday along with that of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. for re-appointment as head of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations. James J. Wadsworth was selected alternate to Lodge.

The 48-year-old Smith, a native

New Yorker, would replace John B. Hollister as head of the International Cooperation Administration. Hollister notified Eisenhower July 1 that he wanted to step down after nearly 2 1/2 years in the post.

Smith was a commander in the Naval Reserve during World War II. He later served in a variety of Navy Department posts, as executive assistant secretary for air and as a special assistant to the secretary of the Navy.

Administration officials said Secretary of State John Foster Dulles picked Miss Dunne, wife of Dr. Francis D. Griffin, because she is regarded an outstanding American woman with a great interest in international affairs.

Senate Rackets Investigators
To Question Ousted Union Official

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate rackets investigator said today an ousted union official will be asked next week whether he handed New York hoodlum Johnny Dio his passport into the labor movement.

Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the Senate Rackets Committee's main witness Monday will be Anthony J. Doria, who resigned under fire last year as secretary-treasurer of the Allied Industrial Workers, a catch-all union formerly known as the AFL United Auto Workers.

Kennedy said the committee also wants to know why Doria got an $80,000 going-away present when he left the union in February, 1956. Outgoing union President Earl Heaton testified Friday that Doria got $25,000 cash and promissory notes for the rest. He said Doria is suing to collect the notes.

A special convention of the union in St. Louis, called to comply with AFL-CIO orders for a housecleaning, decided Thursday to try to recover the $25,000 cash from Doria.

The committee will also question Doria about his handling of Dio after the dapper little racketeer became boss of the UAW-AFL's New York operations. The committee has charged that Dio muscled into control of UAW-AFL Local 102, the union's first New York local, in 1951-52.

Former union President Lester Washburn has fingered Doria as the man who issued a new charter for the local making Dio an official.

From that start Dio rose rapidly to become New York regional director of the union and got chatters for a string of locals. The committee says the locals were staffed with Dio henchmen and operated a thriving racket of extortion and "sweetheart" contracts which exploited low-paid Negro and Puerto Rican workers.

The committee says Dio's henchmen also staffed seven phony "paper locals" of the Teamsters Union which were set up by Teamster Vice President James R. Hoffa to swing an election for control of the Teamsters in New York.

Gribble New
Farmers Home
Committeeman

Orval Gribble, Route 3, Harrisburg, is the new Farmers Home Administration committeeman for Saline county. He succeeds Reuel Thaxton who has served his full three year term. E. Ronald Coon, the agency's county supervisor, announced today.

The other two committeemen with unexpired terms are W. H. Robinson and W. B. Pulliam. Committee members serve 3-year terms arranged so that one member is appointed each year. The term of office begins July 1. A member completing his term cannot succeed himself and at least two of the members must be farmers.

The county committee determines the eligibility of local farmers who apply for Farmers Home Administration loans. The committee also certifies the value of farms being purchased or improved with Farmers Home Administration loans and assists in adapting the loan program to local conditions.

The agency does not make a loan of any type to an applicant whose credit needs can be handled by other credit sources.

Whips Up Squalls
Near Beaumont;
Tides Recede

Heavy Rains Hit
Chicago and Fort
Wayne, Ind., Areas

By United Press
Tropical storm Bertha turned out to be a weak sister to Hurricane Audrey, running out of breath shortly before she flopped on the Louisiana coast late Friday.

The U. S. Weather Bureau reported that Bertha, at one point churning along at near-hurricane force, was gradually diminishing in strength as she wheezed inland. Highest winds at 4 a. m. c. d. t. were 30 to 40 m. p. h. in squalls near the center of the storm about 20 miles northwest of Beaumont, Tex.

Residents along the Gulf Coast, however, had taken no chances and thousands fled the marshy strip which Hurricane Audrey flailed June 27, taking more than 500 lives. Rain had already stopped falling over Cameron, La., late Friday night and winds, seas and tides began to recede as Bertha moved inland.

Although flagging in strength, Bertha's broad sweep continued to whip up squalls and locally heavy rains, about 1-2 inches falling at Beaumont.

Ironically, one of the few reports of damage on land was from Cameron, La., nearly destroyed by hurricane Audrey.

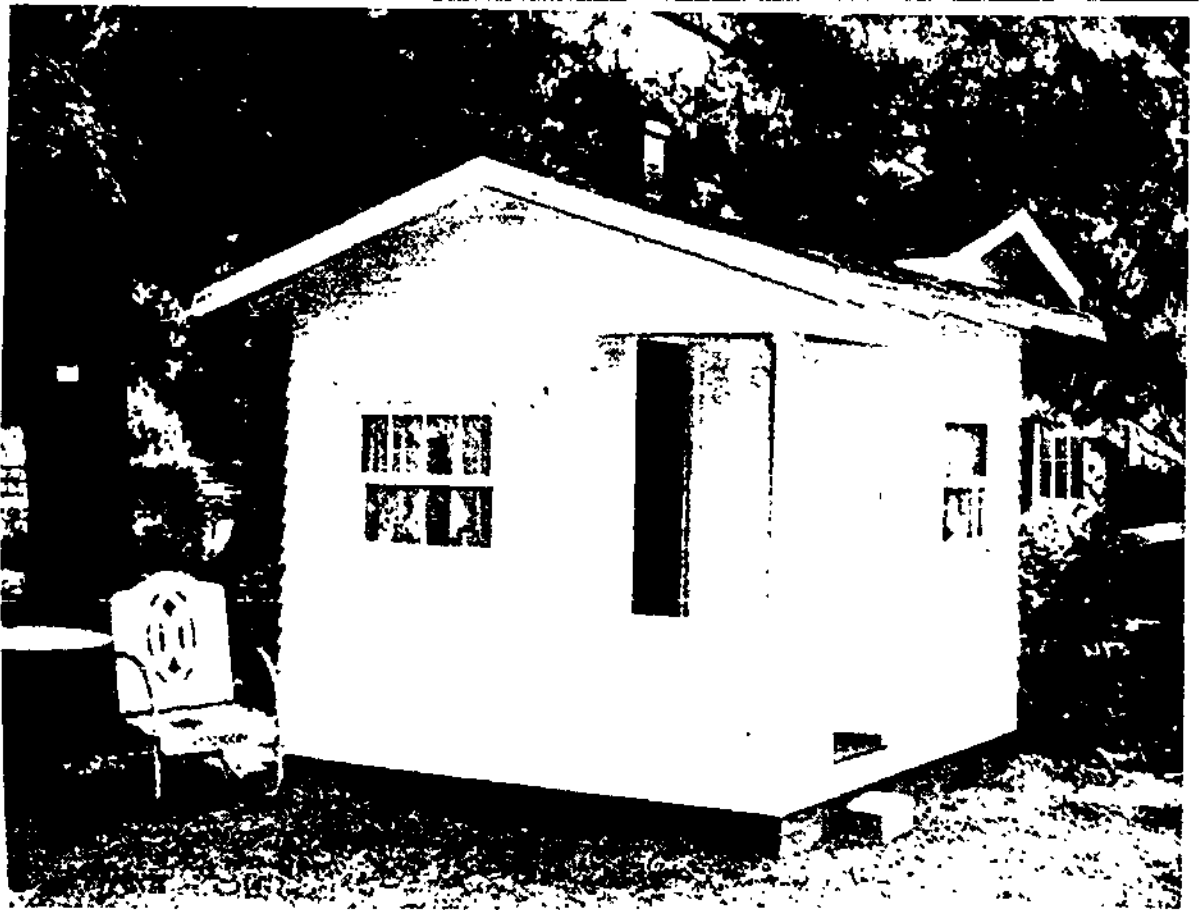

One of the 10 persons who refused to flee from Bertha tried to cook his supper on a makeshift stove.

Rains Drench Chicago
It blew up and destroyed his home and the house next to it.

Further north, heavy rains drenched Chicago for the third time within a month. More than two inches of rain fell in the northwest part of the city, according to an unofficial report, and there were reports of flooded viaducts and basements.

An even heavier downpour hit Fort Wayne, Ind., starting in early evening and depositing 3.69 inches by midnight. Elsewhere thunderstorms pounded a belt extending across the lower Great Lakes into eastern Iowa; Pittsburgh was soaked with a half-inch downpour; and the Texas Panhandle, New Mexico and western Washington were peppered with isolated thundershowers.

Outside the rainfall area fair skies prevailed throughout the country with the exception of New England where clouds continued to keep the sun in. Humidity was high in the southern and central Plains and in most of the area west of the Mississippi and south of the Mason-Dixon Line.

NEW HOUSE IN HARRISBURG—The above photo shows a one-story frame structure that was moved intact from Galatia a short time ago. However it's not a real residence but a play house that was built for Mrs. Harker Milley when she was little Dolly Jones 35 years ago. It was moved from her mother's home in Galatia to the Harker Milley residence at 408 East Church street. The house was built for Mrs. Milley as a Christmas present by her grandfather, the late "P. Jones. Mrs. Milley's grandmother furnished the house and made its curtains, and it had been at the home of Mrs. Milley's mother, Mrs. Edna Jones, all these years. In fact, Mrs. Milley's daughter, Joan Upchurch, played in it as a child and Mr. Milley plans for it to be used by his niece, Katie Lou Milley, and friends in the future. The house is practically ten by ten by ten feet but on the inside the ceiling brings the height down to a little less than six feet. Inside is a breakfast nook, miniature electric stove, and children's table, chair, davenport, dishes and silverware. It is wired for electricity. (Register Staff Photo)

DIFFERENCES IN CORN GROWING on subsoil tillage plots at the Carbondale Agronomy Research Center, cooperatively operated by Southern Illinois University and the University of Illinois, are indicated at this August 1 inspection by Joseph P. Vavra, front, SIU soils specialist, and D. R. Browning, superintendent of the Center. Vavra compares the waist-high corn on an unfertilized area, left, with shoulder-high corn on a normally-fertilized plot. Both areas received plow-depth tillage (nine inches). Browning stretches to reach the top of corn receiving the normal fertilizer treatment but growing on soil tilled 27 inches deep.

Soil Conservation

Trying to Hold Back Rainwater, Soil From Flowing to Gulf

By WARREN STROTHER
United Press Staff Correspondent
"Every drop of rainwater that goes down the watersheds and into the Gulf of Mexico carries some soil with it... we lose both the water and the soil, and holding back that water and that soil is what soil conservation really means."

That is the way state Agriculture Director Stillman J. Stanard defines soil conservation. "We're trying to undo what has been done for some 200 years," Stanard said. "When the trees were cut down, drain ditches were dug, debris taken out of streams and their banks straightened, and the prairies broken and planted, it all helped hurry the water and the soil down to the Gulf," he said.

Soil conservation is a big job, with a complicated local, state and federal program to carry it out. "We've made some progress but there is an awful lot more to do," he said.

List Illinois Agencies
Here is the way the program is set up in Illinois:

At the local level there have been organized 97 soil conservation districts with locally elected officers. The members are farmers and others interested in soil and water conservation and the prevention of costly erosion.

The state Agriculture Department has its soil conservation division, which provides some direct ing in soil conservation programs, and about 3,000 are coming into the program every year.

Once the local districts and individual farmers go as far as they can with the type of projects they can manage, another federal program is available if they can qualify for it.

This program is costly and long range. Under it the federal government will build flood control structures, finance channel improvements and other work with district and state cooperation.

Only one such project has been approved so far in Illinois. The Bureau District in Bureau County and the town of Tiskilwa are cooperating under this program in a flood control project to end the periodic flooding of a number of creeks in the area.

The federal government's part in the program is represented by both the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and the Soil Conservation Service.

The ASC, which has its Illinois headquarters in Springfield, has about eight million dollars a year for the federal share of the financing of on-the-farm conservation practices in Illinois. The projects on which the money is spent range from providing lime and phosphates to improve grass and legume seedings to the building of waterways and terraces.

Applications for federal aid for such practices go to the county ASC committees and when approved, the farmer usually pays more than 50 per cent of the total cost of a project.

The soil conservation service with state headquarters at Champaign is purely a technical agency and supplies assistance in planning and carrying out conservation projects in the various districts.

The service's Illinois chief, Bruce Clark, estimated that about 45,000 Illinois farmers now are participat-

Grass Waterway or Gully

By Tom Morgan
The majority of people would think I was crazy to ask them which they would prefer a good grass waterway or a gully on their farm. And yet by the very fact there are still a lot of gullies in Saline county it would appear that many people had as soon have a gully on their farm as to have a grass waterway. However I do not think that is true actually. Constructing and seeding a grass waterway takes a little time and with so many things to be done on the farm it is just easy to put the waterway off from year to year.

There are many reasons for establishing good grass waterways in the draws that tend to wash during each rain. Since everyone is familiar with the advantages of eliminating gullies it is not necessary here to enumerate the reasons for building waterways.

The thing that is important is to get these waterways built. Now is a good time to plow in and properly shape some of the small gullies and seed them to grass. You can plow in and shape some rather deep gullies with your own equipment if you are willing to devote enough time to the job. The width and depth the waterways should be determined by the amount of drainage area it has to carry. No waterway should be less than a rod in width and one foot in depth. When properly shaped it will have a wide flat area in the bottom with gently sloping sides. The seed bed should be worked down very firm. Three to four hundred pounds of complete fertilizer should be worked into each acre of waterway. Fescue should be seeded at the rate of 25 to 30 pounds per acre.

If you would like to have the advice and help of the SCS Technicians in building your waterway phone 295, Harrisburg.

Three University of Illinois entomologists each travel from 400 to 1,000 miles a week over the state checking insect populations in order to issue warnings and recommend proper treatment to prevent major crop damage and to save growers money by telling them when treatment is not necessary.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Truth is fallen in the street. Isaiah 59:14.
It is a sad day for any country when this condition prevails. The whole strength of the nation is devoted to building up the might of dictatorship. We have heard of families in which three fourths of the family was employed. We are always hungry.

Helpless Lizard
Most helpless of all lizards is the blind worm, or slow worm, which does not possess any legs and looks like a snake. It is neither blind, slow nor a worm. It has small, bright eyes, equipped with eyelids, and can move very quickly on occasion.

Begin Livestock Judging at State Fair; 60,000 Attend Opening

SPRINGFIELD — Livestock judging, square dancing, a barn dance program with cowboy Gene Autry and a baton twirling contest were on the program today as the Illinois State Fair marked "Labor Day."

No formal observance of the day was scheduled by labor.

A chance of showers threatened to hold down attendance as the 10-day fair moved into its second day.

Montadale sheep, Shetland ponies, Morgan horses, Suffolk sheep, rabbits and barrows were among the livestock to parade before the judges.

Judging also opened in competition for wool, market eggs, stamp collections and gladioli.

In the way of entertainment the program today offered the WLS National Barn Dance program featuring Autry, performances of the ice show and society horse show, harness racing and a street dance.

Herbert Hoover, 84; Says Longevity Depends on Pills

SAN FRANCISCO — Herbert Hoover began his 84th year today, enjoying "fundamentally good" health but wryly acknowledging his "longevity depends mainly on pills."

The former Republican President told newsmen his hearing was failing but except for a siege of "wonder drug" allergy he has been in top shape since his last birthday.

"After you pass the Scriptural limit of three score and 10 years" he said with a smile, "your longevity depends mainly on pills."

Hoover and three generations of his family were guests at a luncheon aboard the American President liner named in his honor as a highpoint of the observance of his 83rd birthday.

Hoover had comments on practically every subject except politics to offer newsmen at his traditional pre-birthday news conference Friday.

DIFFERENCES IN CORN GROWING on subsoil tillage plots at the Carbondale Agronomy Research Center, cooperatively operated by Southern Illinois University and the University of Illinois, are indicated at this August 1 inspection by Joseph P. Vavra, front, SIU soils specialist, and D. R. Browning, superintendent of the Center. Vavra compares the waist-high corn on an unfertilized area, left, with shoulder-high corn on a normally-fertilized plot. Both areas received plow-depth tillage (10 inches), growing stretch to reach the top of corn receiving the normal fertilizer treatment but growing on soil tilled 27 inches deep. (SIU Photo Service)

Soil Conservation

Trying to Hold Back Rainwater, Soil From Flowing to Gulf

By WARREN STROTHER
United Press Staff Correspondent

"Every drop of rainwater that goes down the watersheds and into the Gulf of Mexico carries some soil with it... we lose both the water and the soil, and holding back that water and that soil is what soil conservation really means."

That is the way state Agriculture Director Stillman J. Stanard defines soil conservation. "We're trying to undo what has been done for some 200 years," Stanard said. "When the trees were cut down, drain ditches were dug, debris taken out of streams and their banks straightened, and the prairies broken and planted, it all helped hurry the water and the soil down to the Gulf," he said.

Soil conservation is a big job, with a complicated local, state and federal program to carry it out. "We've made some progress but there is an awful lot more to do," he said.

List Illinois Agencies
Here is the way the program is set up in Illinois:

At the local level there have been organized 97 soil conservation districts with locally elected officers. The members are farmers and others interested in soil and water conservation and the prevention of costly erosion.

The state Agriculture Department has its soil conservation division, which provides some direct ing in soil conservation programs, and about 3,000 are coming into the program every year.

Once the local districts and individual farmers go as far as they can with the type of projects they can manage, another federal program is available if they can qualify for it.

This program is costly and long range. Under it the federal government will build flood control structures, finance channel improvements and other work with district and state cooperation.

Only one such project has been approved so far in Illinois. The Bureau District in Bureau County and the town of Tiskilwa are co-operating under this program in a flood control project to end the periodic flooding of a number of creeks in the area.

The federal government's part in the program is represented by both the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and the Soil Conservation Service.

The ASC, which has its Illinois headquarters in Springfield, has about eight million dollars a year for the federal share of the financing of on-the-farm conservation practices in Illinois. The projects on which the money is spent range from providing lime and phosphates to improve grass and legume seedings to the building of waterways and terraces.

Applications for federal aid for such practices go to the county ASC committees and when approved, the farmer usually pays more than 50 per cent of the total cost of a project.

The soil conservation service with state headquarters at Champaign is purely a technical agency and supplies assistance in planning and carrying out conservation projects in the various districts.

The service's Illinois chief, Bruce Clark, estimated that about 45,000 Illinois farmers now are participat-

Grass Waterway or Gully

By Tom Morgan

The majority of people would think I was crazy to ask them which they would prefer a good grass waterway or a gully on their farm. And yet by the very fact there are still a lot of gullies in Saline county it would appear that many people had as soon have a gully on their farm as to have a grass waterway. However I do not think that is true actually. Constructing and seeding a grass waterway takes a little time and with so many things to be done on the farm it is just easy to put the waterway off from year to year.

There are many reasons for establishing good grass waterways in the draws that tend to wash during each rain. Since everyone is familiar with the advantages of eliminating gullies it is not necessary here to enumerate the reasons for building waterways. The thing that is important is to get these waterways built. Now is a good time to plan in and properly shape some of the smaller gullies and seed them to grass. You can plan in and shape some rather deep gullies with your own equipment if you are willing to devote enough time to the job. The width and depth the waterways should be determined by the amount of drainage area it has to carry. No waterway should be less than a rod in width and one foot in depth. When properly shaped it will have a wide flat area in the bottom with gently sloping sides. The seed bed should be worked down very firm. Three to four hundred pounds of complete fertilizer should be worked into each acre of waterway. Fescue should be seeded at the rate of 25 to 30 pounds per acre.

If you would like to have the advice and help of the SCS Technicians in building your waterway, phone 295, Harrisburg.

Three University of Illinois entomologists each travel from 400 to 1,000 miles a week over the state checking insect populations in order to issue warnings and recommend proper treatment to prevent major crop damage and to save growers money by telling them when treatment is not necessary.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
Truth is fallen in the street. Isaiah 59:14.

It is a sad day for any country when this condition prevails. The whole strength of the nation is devoted to building up the might of dictatorship. We have heard of families in which three fourths of the family was employed. We are always hungry.

Helpless Lizard
Most helpless of all lizards is the blind worm, or slow worm, which does not possess any legs and looks like a snake. It is neither blind, slow nor a worm. It has small, bright eyes, equipped with eyelids, and can move very quickly on occasion.

Begin Livestock Judging at State Fair; 60,000 Attend Opening

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Livestock judging, square dancing, a barn dance program with cowboy Gene Autry and a baton twirling contest were on the program today as the Illinois State Fair marked "Labor Day."

No formal observance of the day was scheduled by labor.

A chance of showers threatened to hold down attendance as the 10-day fair moved into its second day.

Montadale sheep, Shetland ponies, Morgan horses, Suffolk sheep, rabbits and barrows were among the livestock to parade before the judges.

Judging also opened in competition for wool, market eggs, stamp collections and gladioli.

In the way of entertainment the program today offered the WLS National Barn Dance program featuring Autry, performances of the ice show and society horse show, harness racing and a street dance.

Attendance was estimated at 60,000 for opening day of the fair Friday, which wound up with a grandstand show featuring singers.

McKinley Avenue Circle A
Meets in the Church

Circle A of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church met in the church Wednesday. Mrs. Amy Reynolds, chairman, opened the meeting and a hymn was sung, followed by a prayer led by Mrs. Carrie Jackson. Esie Holloway read the minutes of the previous meeting and each member answered roll call with a verse of scripture. Reports of the chairmen were presented, also the report of the community mission on visiting the sick and sending cards. Mrs. Ada Rann led in prayer and Mrs. Lucy Ramsey gave the devotional lesson "No Other Name," using scriptures, Acts 4:12 and Hebrew 12:16.

Mrs. Ada Rann presented the topic, "Trend in Modern Spain," and Lola Ridley gave the topic, "Doors Are Opening in Italy." Mrs. Gertrude Hutchinson closed the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. T. A. Wilkinson, 715 S. McKinley, Harrisburg, has received word from Mrs. Helen Gaskins, Hromada of El Reno, Okla., that she has gone to Chicago with her daughters, Katie and Judy Hromada, to attend the funeral of the children's grandmother Hromada who died in Chicago Wednesday.

Return From Tour of Southwest, Old Mexico

They took conducted tours to several places of interest around Denver and Colorado Springs.

In Mesa, Arizona, they visited Mr. and Mrs. Claude Van Fleet, former Harrisburg residents, and close friends of the Harris family.

Mrs. Claude L. Rew, 412 South Main, Harrisburg, has recently returned to her home from Villa Ridge where she cared for the home of Mrs. Clyde A. Herbert Hoover, 84; Says Longevity Depends on Pills

SAN FRANCISCO, Ill. — Herbert Hoover began his 84th year today, enjoying "fundamentally good" health but wryly acknowledging his "longevity depends mainly on pills."

The former Republican President told newsmen his hearing was failing but except for a siege of "wonder drug" allergy he has been in top shape since his last birthday.

"After you pass the Scriptural limit of three score and 10 years," he said with a smile, "your longevity depends mainly on pills."

Hoover and three generations of his family were guests at a luncheon aboard the American President liner named in his honor or as a highpoint of the obsequy of his 83rd birthday.

Hoover had comments on practically every subject except politics to offer newsmen at his traditional pre-birthday news conference Friday.

'Hannah, a Woman Who Kept Her Promise'

I Samuel 1:9-28

GOLDEN TEXT: "I will pay thee my vows, which my lips have uttered, and my mouth hath spoken, when I was in trouble." (Psalm 66:14)

INTRODUCTION — God needed a great man to lead Israel (His people) at this particular time. He chose a great woman to become mother of this man. His name was to be Samuel. He was to be a prophet and a maker of kings. He was to lead God's people. Before he could even come into the world, it was necessary for God to choose his mother. God chose Hannah.

I HANNAH KNEW GOD

1. When sons and daughters rise up and "call her blessed" a mother has the highest tribute that can be offered in this world. A mother may not be able to give material gifts to her children, but there is one thing that she alone can give them. That is—a Christian mother.

Lady, you are the only one in all this whole world who can give your child a Christian mother. They deserve such influence. What are you doing about it?

Hannah's husband loved her. He had followed the customs of that day and had taken a second wife. This second wife bore children. Hannah seemed to be able to have no child. Nevertheless, her husband loved her more than he did the other wife.

2. Hannah prayed. Oh! how she prayed for God to give her a child. She promised that she would dedicate that child to God "all the days of his life." If only God would permit her to conceive and bare a child.

3. God gave Hannah a son. She knew that this son was a gift from God. (Do you know that your child is God's gift?) She continued year after year to pray for her son.

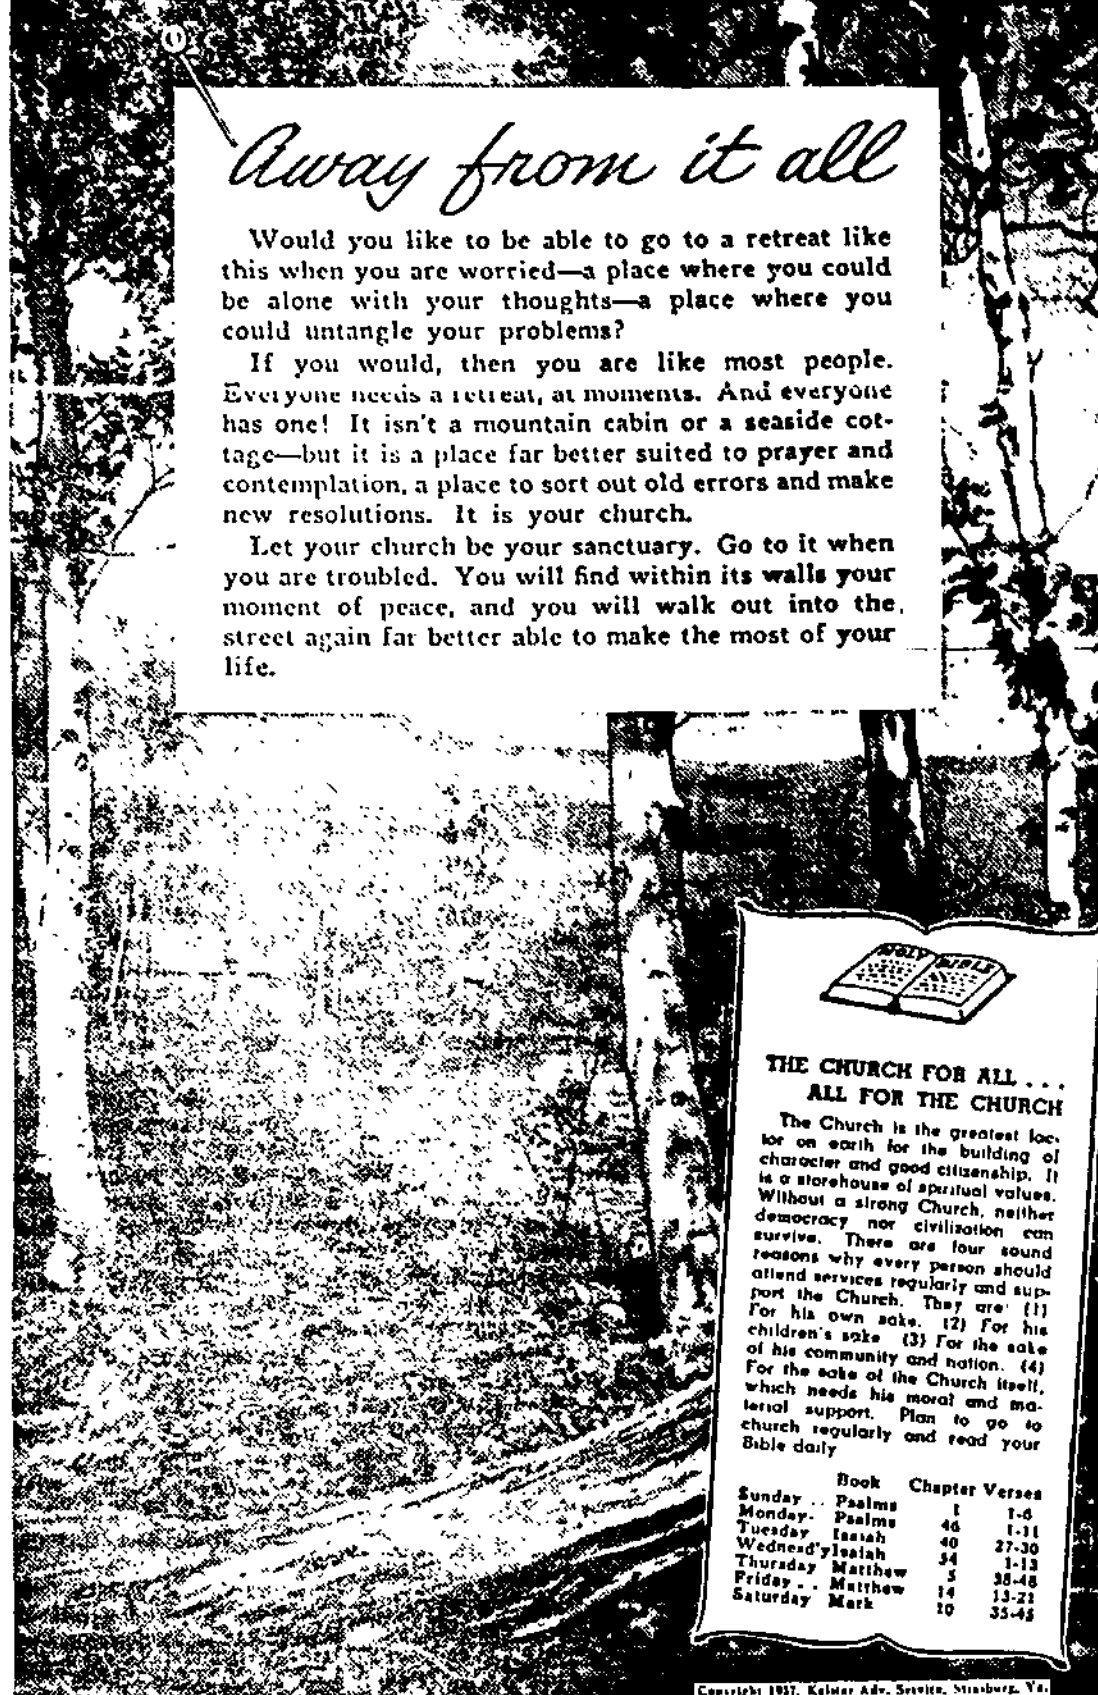

II HANNAH SACRIFICED

1. She had made a promise. She kept that promise. Have you made promises to God? Have you kept those promises? When your child was born, were you so happy that you promised God to rear that child under Christian influence and the influence of the church? Have you kept that promise?

2. Hannah kept her promise. Many times parents stand in the way of children going into the ministry or mission field. Sometimes these same parents were the ones who promised God years ago that He could have their child to do with as he pleased. How very tragic! Many men and women would be on mission fields today, were it not for such parents.

CONCLUSION — Hannah raised her boy in the paths of righteousness. She taught him to recognize God in all things in his life. Please note that she went with him to the temple. She did not send him. Parents who send their children to church and Sunday School, instead of taking them are making a terrible mistake. If church is no more important to parents than that, how can they expect it to ever be of much importance to the children?

The story of Hannah moves up to want to rededicate our lives in to service for God. How about your life and its influence. Why not start today by giving yourself to Him?

Away from it all

Would you like to be able to go to a retreat like this when you are worried—a place where you could be alone with your thoughts—a place where you could untangle your problems?

If you would, then you are like most people. Everyone needs a retreat, at moments. And everyone has one! It isn't a mountain cabin or a seaside cottage—but it is a place far better suited to prayer and contemplation, a place to sort out old errors and make new resolutions. It is your church.

Let your church be your sanctuary. Go to it when you are troubled. You will find within its walls your moment of peace, and you will walk out into the street again far better able to make the most of your life.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest force for good in the world. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Yankee Lead Dwindles to Four Games; Braves Drop Cards, 13-2; Lead 3½ Games

By United Press
Don't look now, Casey, but your lead is shrinking and the White Sox figure there's still time to take the Yankees to the cleaners. Casey Stengel has been warning the Yanks all along they can't afford to relax and if they think he was all talk, he can show 'em the American League standings today which point up the fact that their lead has been sliced from seven games to four.

Only a few days ago everyone was talking about another prospective Yankee runaway but now they're buzzing about how the never-say-die White Sox still have a chance and how those amazing Baltimore Orioles have bounced back to take over fourth place under Paul Richards' canny direction.

The Orioles, as a matter of fact, used the Yankees as a stepping stone to fourth place when they came from behind to beat them, 4-3, Friday night.

The White Sox, still determined to make a race of it, defeated the Tigers, 5-1, in 11 innings, and Washington, which has caught the winning spirit, too, blanked Boston, 8-0. Kansas City beat Cleveland, 3-2, in 13 innings.

Over in the National League, Milwaukee increased its lead to 3½ games with a 13-2 shellacking of St. Louis. Brooklyn licked Pittsburgh, 4-2; the Giants beat the Phillies, 6-2; and the Redlegs clobbered the Cubs' six-game winning streak by sweeping a two-night double-header, 9-7 and 6-4.

The Braves pounded out 18 hits, including homers by Hank Aaron, Bob Hazle, Eddie Mathews and Wes Covington, in sending Lindy McDaniel of the Cardinals down to his seventh defeat. Bob Buhl posted his sixth straight victory and his 15th of the campaign as the Cards suffered their fourth consecutive loss.

Lamping Duke Snider, back in the lineup for the first time in a week, was the key man as the Dodgers snapped their three-game losing streak. He deceived Pirate catcher Hank Foiles into dropping the ball and scored a run that put the Dodgers ahead in the fourth, then opened a two-run eighth with his 27th homer off loser Bob Friend. Rookie Danny McDevitt was the winner although Sandy Koufax and Clem Labine helped him out in the ninth.

Ray Crone hurled five-hit ball and Hank Sauer smashed his 17th homer as the Giants handed Rob in Roberts his 15th setback of the season.

NOW AND THEN—When Casey Stengel, right, was traded to the Giants in 1921, little did the outfielder dream that 36 years later he would be writing out batting orders and trying to win an eighth pennant as manager of the Yankees at the age of 67. Ol' Case broke into majors with the Dodgers at 22.

Congress Concerned

May Drop Charges in Spy Case Unless FBI Files are Protected

WASHINGTON (UP) — The government may have to drop its spy case against Soviet Co. Rudolph Ivanovich Abel unless Congress takes action to protect FBI files, congressional sources said today.

The Justice Department had no comment, but sources close to the department expressed fears about the outcome against Abel, who is regarded as one of the central figures in the government's recent roundup of accused spies.

Abel was indicted Wednesday on charges that he sent secret defense material to Russia while posing for nine years as a Brooklyn photographer. If convicted, he would be liable to the death penalty.

Congressional concern about the outcome of the case stemmed from the June 3 Supreme Court decision to compel the government to show defendants in criminal cases the FBI reports of prosecution witnesses.

Akins Wins TKO Over Sugar Hart

CLEVELAND AP — Virgil Akins, veteran St. Louis welter weight, clamored today for a shot at the winner of the Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio title bout, figuring he earned it by his upset eight-round technical knockout over Garnett (Sugar) Hart Friday night.

Referee Lou Parker stopped the fight after 49 seconds of the eighth round, but many ringsiders in the public auditorium felt he should have made the gesture mid-way in the seventh when a looping right hook dropped Hart for an eight-count, after which he arose and absorbed a merciless pasting.

Old Man's Know-How Conerly, Agajanian, MacAfee Lead Giants to 22-12 Win Over All-Stars

CHICAGO AP — An "old man's know-how" pulled the New York Giants to a 22-12 win over the 1957 College All-Stars in the 24th battle between the best of the pros and the standout collegians.

Chuck Conerly, a 33-year-old Mississippian with nine years of experience with the National Football League champions, wasted no motions in spurring his team from behind to win.

His chief assistants were Ben Agajanian, 38, a place-kicking specialist, and Ken MacAfee, 28, an end. MacAfee, who has averaged one touchdown for every four passes caught in pro competition, hauled in only three of Conerly's efforts Friday night, but two of them went for touchdowns on gains of 38 and 10 yards.

When Conerly's passing attack slipped, Agajanian produced. In addition to making the conversions after each touchdown, he booted field goals of 33 and 45 yards, the latter only one yard short of the All-Star Game record. In all, Conerly hit on eight of 17 passes for 124 yards, most of the Giants' passing gains of 160 yards.

This attacking group, though, had to share honors with the defense. In the second half the All-Stars gained only seven yards rushing and 62 passing and but for Paige Cothren's 24-yard field goal, they would have been held scoreless.

Cothren, from Mississippi also, kicked a 12-yard field goal early.

Jockey Johnny Longden Hurt

DEL MAR, Calif. AP — Johnny Longden, the world's oldest, richest and winningest jockey, neared the end of the trail today after suffering a double break in his right leg at Del Mar race track.

The 47-year-old rider, who has collected 5,000 victories in more than a quarter of a century of horse racing, lay in Scripps Memorial Hospital at nearby La Jolla with no misgivings about Friday's accident that may sideline him permanently from the game he loves.
